ABOUT ME

I have always been passionate about computers and learning how they work. This last year I had the opportunity to do a full stack web development bootcamp through UCF, and expand upon my love for learning and technology. All throughout school and my career at discount tire I have learned strong moral foundations, how to be a servant leader, and how to put others needs before my own. This has led to me being very successful in my career and has given me the tools to succeed in anything I put my mind to.
